

F.U.A. District Convention A Huge Success

District No. 7 of the F.U.A. held a highly successful and widely attended annual meeting in the Legion Hall at Vermilion on Tuesday, July 3rd.

There were 152 registered delegates representing approximately 60 locals and about a hundred visitors in attendance.

Resolutions covering a wide range of subjects were dealt with in a very business like way. The Chairmen for the day were E. P. Taylor, District President and J. Jackson, District Vice-President.

During the afternoon session, Henry Young, Provincial President, gave a very interesting talk on "The State of the Union," and the many problems with which it is endeavouring to deal; pointing out that the solution of most of our problems must come from the men and women on the land through organization and co-operation.

Jas. Jackson of Irma was elected as District Director for the ensuing year, replacing Ray Garneau of Wainwright who has held the post for a number of years. Geo. Tindall of Fabyan replaced E. P. Taylor as District President; Mrs. W. C. Taylor was elected District Vice-President and Mrs. Matheson of Dewberry is the new F.W.U.A. director.

Irma Curlers Off To Nelson Summer Spiel

Messrs. Lawson, Pryce Jones and L. H. Bars of Irma with Mr. Wright of Fabyan are leaving these parts on Friday of this week. Now, everyone will be wondering how a foursome of such curling enthusiasts could be getting together for in July. Well, they are getting together to go curling! Their destination is Nelson, B.C. and they are all set to take part in the Mid-Summer Bonspiel which commences about July 9th.

We all wish them the best of luck and we are sure they will have a grand time and do their best to uphold the honour of the Irma Curling Club.

Viking Items

Winner of the eighth car of the Car A Month Club was Mr. A. R. Magee, of Meadow Lake, Sask. The draw was made at the dance in the Community Hall where a large crowd from far and near was present. Mr. Wm. Darby of Edmonton, a former car a month winner, drew the membership, No. 3044 from the barrel which happened to be Mr. Magee's. Mr. Magee was notified immediately after the draw. The news was also carried over the CFRN radio station from Edmonton, between the hour of 11:30 and 12 midnight, when local business men present a musical program for half an hour.

Present at the dance were "The King and His Court, famous four-man football team from Oregon. The King (Ed Feigner) proved himself quite an orator and praised the promoter and supporters of the Car A Month Club for their enterprise and hoped to be back again next year when the second series of the Car A Month club draws are held.

The King and His Court, the four man football team from Walla Walla, Washington, and parts of Oregon, showed a lot of class when they played an exhibition game here with a team picked from Viking, Apolomb, and Kinsella, last Friday evening.

King Ed Feigner proved why he is one of the best drawing cards in football by pitching his team to an easy victory over the local combination by a score that we forgot to jot down. However, the local team enjoyed the game along with the hundreds of fans that attended from many points around.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Spring of Mannville, also Mr. Alfred Peterson of Edberg, were guests at the Spring farm last weekend.

Miss Norma Likness had rather a severe case of flu a day or two after her appendectomy, which caused her to be quite a sick girl. However, once the flu was conquered, Norma was soon on the mend.

The Ladies' Aid of the district attended the great Convention at Seattle have all returned and report a very fine time. The only drawback, seemingly, was not enough rest. We hope that will soon be remedied.

World of Wheat

Proposed New Classification Of Seed

Proposals were made at the recent annual meeting of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association for the setting up of a new classification of true-to-variety seed that would have a somewhat lower standard of truthness-to-variety than the present high standard of Registered Seed, and which in consequence could be produced at a lower cost and it is thought offered for sale to farmers at a price somewhat between the present high price of Registered Seed and the much lower price of Commercial Seed. It was stated that today only 5 percent of the farmers each year purchase Registered Seed, mainly because of the high price. It was thought that tens of thousands of farmers who today buy no Registered Seed at all might be induced to purchase seed of this somewhat lower standard of truthness-to-variety and which would, of course, be infinitely better for them and for their crops than Commercial Seed, which has no guarantee of truthness-to-variety and which in fact can, and often does, consist of mixed varieties. The matter is being studied by the Standards Committee and the Directors of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association.

The fire siren began to wail at fifteen to seven o'clock on Tuesday morning, bringing the volunteer fire brigade out of bed in a hurry. Some electrical wiring in the Simmonson home had started a fire in the wall. However, this was soon put out before any real damage could be done.

And there we all were up and dressed and ready for work right early in the morning. Perhaps we should see the Council about having the siren ring at fifteen to seven every week day morning or would we soon be able to turn a deaf ear to that even as we now do to the old alarm clock.

All pastors of these denominations have been authorized to receive common applications on behalf of this Council. Accordingly some farmers for whom we have not been able to procure DP's through the Dept. of Labour might be advised to apply through their respective churches. It is possible that the applications might be filed more quickly in this way. This is not to say that a farmer should apply to both the Dept. of Labour and the church in the future, but that those whose applications have not been filled might, if they wish, place an application through the church and that for future applications quicker results might be procured in that way.

What Next?

Self-basting roasts which baste themselves can be made with the help of the new Wagon Wrap Machine, a device which produces layers of fat in which the butcher can wrap meat. The machine grinds fat into a fine mixture and extrudes it on strips of Sylvania Cellophane. This sheet of fat is then tied around the meat. The cellophane seals in the juices while the meat is cooking, but it can be removed about ten minutes before the roast is done. The heat can then be raised to 400 degrees F to brown the fat.

Commons Passes Legislation to Lower Pension Age to 65

OTTAWA—Pensions of $40 a month for needy Canadians at age 65 and extended financial aid to the blind came close to reality at a recent session of parliament.

Health Minister Martin put through all stages bills providing for the old age pension at age 65 instead of 70 at present, and a measure widening the scope of financial aid to the blind.

At the fall session the government will bring in legislation providing for federal pensions to all Canadians at age 70 without the means test, payments to begin on January 1, 1952.

The pensions legislation now goes to the senate.

The lowered limit on old age pensions was welcomed by all parties but there was argument for abolition of the means test which will still prevail for the pensions in the 65-to-69 age class.

Trade With Britain

THE RECENT ANNOUNCEMENT that British purchases in Canada in the next year are likely to increase by fifty per cent, has been welcomed here. The inability of Britain to buy widely outside of the sterling area since the war has caused a disruption of the long-standing trade relations between the two countries and the loss to Canada of a traditional and dependable market for our surpluses of grain and raw materials. Britain's effort to overcome the dollar shortage, which was one of the great problems left by the last war, have been watched with concern by many in this country.

Welcome To British Also

Canadians have co-operated in the campaign put on by Britain to sell British goods in Canada, and the amount of goods sold here, notably British automobiles, has no doubt had a very important part in restoring British purchasing power in this country. While the falling off of British buying in Canada has caused concern and anxiety in many quarters, we should remember that the people of Britain have been severely restricted in the supply of many important items, and the flow of more wheat, newsprint and other Canadian products to their country will be as welcome to them as it is to us.

Has Turned To United States

In the face of Britain's inability to buy from this country, Canada has turned to the rich export market in the United States in the past few years. However, any change in the American economy might result in a decrease in the amount of their imports from Canada. Great Britain, with its large population and limited living space has always been a dependable market for Canadian wheat and other food products and as her purchasing power in the dollar area grows, there will be general satisfaction that another of the post-war problems is nearing solution.

Forecast Good Duck Hunting In Manitoba

WINNIPEG.—Breeding conditions for water fowl in Manitoba and through the west were generally good, B. W. Cartwright of Ducks Unlimited (Canada) said in Winnipeg.

He was commenting on a report by Albert M. Day, director of the U.S. fish and wildlife service, that although breeding populations generally are lower this year than last, good nesting conditions in Manitoba should mean good hunting in states along the Mississippi migratory route next fall.

The Mississippi flyway also gets ducks from eastern Saskatchewan which reports excellent water conditions and "bright prospects for a successful hatch."

Project Proving Successful

MELFORT, Sask.—According to Judge McKim, President of Ducks Unlimited this project has been successful, at least at Waterhen lake near Kinitino. The judge recently covered the lake in a canoe, and reported that many ducks, Canada geese, and Franklin gulls were to be found nesting there.

Funny and Otherwise

Sitting at home, having a quiet evening, were two spinster sisters. Suddenly one looked up from the paper she was reading and commented: "There's an article here telling of the death of a woman's third husband. She has had all of them cremated."

"Isn't that life for you?" said the other. "Some of us can't even get one husband, while others have husbands to burn."

The impatient-looking man had been waiting at his table for a long time when his waiter finally returned and said:

"Your trout will be ready any time now, sir. Is there anything else you'd like in the meantime?"

"Yes, there is," the patron replied. "Tell me, what are you using for bait?"

Sandy: "Are ye fond of moving pictures, Jeannie?"

Jeanie (thoughtfully): "Ay, Sandy."

Sandy: "Then mebbe, lass, ye'll help me get half a dozen doon out o' the back atter."

A woman, whose husband is in a business that requires his absence from home for a week or two several times a year, was asked if she missed him a great deal.

"No, not so much," she replied. "I just prop a newspaper up in front of his breakfast plate and imagine he is there behind it."

Lady Customer: "I see this medicine is advertised as good for man and beast."

Druggist: "Yes."

Customer: "Gimme a bottle. I believe it's the right combination to help my husband."

"How are you getting along in your driving?" inquired an interested friend of the novice.

"Oh, fine, she bragged. "Yesterday I went 50 miles an hour and tomorrow I'm going to try opening my eyes when I pass another car."

A distinguished visitor to an insane asylum went to the telephone and found difficulty in getting his connection. Exasperated, he shouted to the operator:

"Look here, girl, do you know who I am?"

"No," was the calm reply, "but I know where you are."

The cancelled young man was even more boring than usual. "It's a fact," he said with pride, "that people often take me for a member of the guards."

His pretty companion wasn't impressed. "Really?" she drawled. "Fire—shin—railway—mud—or black?"

Dad labored hard for eighteen years To keep the wolf away;

Then daughter up and married one And brought him home to stay.

"Parents," growled the aged bachelor, "most contrary folk in the world. Spend months teaching their child to speak, then do nothing but tell it to be quiet."

Father: "What is the time?"

Engaged Daughter: "Alfred's watch is not going."

Father: "And what about Alfred himself?"

It was during a lover's quarrel that she said, "If I said anything I'm sorry for, I'm glad of it."

Fattening Heifers In Six Months

VANCOUVER, B.C.—Twenty-four head of prime cattle tip the scales daily at University of British Columbia agriculture scientists try to trim six months off the time required to get heifers ready for market.

The scientists are experimenting with a new feed developed from grain elevator waste and a liquid by-product of the province's whaling industry. First tests showed a small ration of the new feed kept steers growing throughout the winter.

Dr. A. N. Wood, U.B.C. animal nutrition expert, said use of the new feed may get animals ready for market in 18 instead of the usual 24 months.

Food test groups of six steers each received different rations at Col. Victor Spencer's Earls Court farm at Lytton, B.C. The first group got only hay and water and gained one-third pound per day.

The second group was fed a pound of the new feed a day, plus hay, and gained a little less than a pound a day.

The third group received two pounds of the new feed, plus hay, and gained exactly one pound per day, Wood said. The fourth group was given three pounds of feed, and hay, and put on more than a pound of weight per day.

Wood said a test run of heifers were getting eight to nine pounds of the new feed daily, and it was hoped they would reach a weight of 900 to 1,000 pounds by August or September.

Wood said the new feed is a combination of No. 4 screenings from grain elevator waste plus "whale solubles"—a by-product of the whaling industry.

Prairies Receive Nearly $25 Million Defence Contracts

OTTAWA.—Millions of dollars are being spent in the prairies on defence contracts and under the air training plan as Canada's defence programme increases Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe, minister of defence production, told parliament.

In the past fiscal year the prairies received defence contracts amounting to nearly $25,000,000 he said.

In Saskatchewan alone, in April, defence orders worth nearly $500,000 were placed. In May Defence Construction Limited (a crown company) awarded contracts for over $4,000,000 in that province, said Mr. Howe.

He was replying to complaints which he said were voiced frequently from the prairies and in particular Saskatchewan, that too few defence contracts were awarded in the west.

Indians Feel Loss Of Old Friend

WATERTON, Alta.—Blood Indians of southern Alberta have said a sad goodbye to a staunch friend.

He is Ven. Samuel H. Middleton, archdeacon of Lethbridge, who has worked with the Bloods since 1909.

Archdeacon Middleton retired because of failing eyesight from his position as rector of St. Paul's Anglican church for the Indians at Cardston, of St. Thomas' church in Cardston and of All Saints' church in the town of Waterton.

Although retiring as archdeacon of Lethbridge, he will retain the title of archdeacon by special permission of Rt. Rev. Richard Ragg, Bishop of Calgary.

Fittingly enough, his last sermon was preached on the grass beside a running stream, a few miles from the reservation where he began his missionary work 41 years ago. As the snow-haired priest ended his last service, Chief Joe Bull Shields told a reporter, "It's awfully hard to see him go."

Lynn Lake Rail Line Approved

OTTAWA.—The commons gave approval in principle to the Canadian National Railways building a 155-mile rail line to tap nickel-copper ore deposits at Lynn Lake, Man. The house gave second reading to a bill authorizing the new line.

The $14,725,000 line will run from Sherridon, Man., to Lynn Lake, where the Sherritt-Gordon mining company is to locate its operations now centred at Sherridon, where ore deposits have become exhausted.

The C.N.R. is to bear $100,000,000 of the construction costs, with the federal government putting up the remainder as a measure to assist defence production because of the strategic minerals involved.

Transport Minister Chevrier said that under an agreement between the C.N.R. and Sherritt-Gordon, the railway is to be completed by Nov. 1, 1953. The company is to build a plant to produce 2,000 tons of ore concentrates a day at Lynn Lake and a plant at Edmonton to refine the ores by use of natural gas.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY

THE SENTENCE

"Till Never Burn" Was
Tainter's Repeated Assertion • By JOHN T. KIERAN

"Till never burn!" was Tainter's repeated assertion, even after they had removed him to cell block K, that island of the condemned set in this sea of humanity's fates and jetsam. And now his great opportunity had come.

Cell block K was separate from the other cell blocks and situated in the centre of the huge old building that formed part of the prison. Ordinarily the cells in K would have been the last word in inescapable imprisonment, but just as they had been made more cunning-proof than the cells in the other blocks, so were the men confined in them possessed of more cunning and a relentless, desperate sort of courage than the men in the others.

Tainter was one of the condemned. Until the moment of his execution he was to be confined in block K. Burn him! That was what they were going to do. Give him the chair. But they wouldn't! He would never burn. Any chance, any attempt, no matter how desperate would be preferable to waiting here for the time when they would sit him down in that chair. It scared him every time he thought of it. He wasn't a coward. No one who knew him would ever say that. He had faced death too many times in his operations. Maybe it was why he was so successful a killer, his lack of fear. But this! Led like a sheep to be bumped off by a trickle of juice he couldn't even see. No matter what happened he would not be electrocuted.

For a long time the whole prison had been seething with discontent. Crowded quarters, restricted privileges due to lack of facilities, and other less well-founded complaints had made the men rebellious and sullen. And the men in block K, the condemned and the incorrigibles, smouldered with the fires of desperate natures or the fears of what was coming.

Tainter engineered the break from the start. By means of the usual underground telegraph the entire block was in on the plan. Several of the trustees had been enlisted. They were to furnish the revolvers and to aid the men in getting out into the corridors.

Tainter faced only one man. That was Hardy, the head warden. He had such an uncanny way of ferreting out breaks just before they broke. Also there was Father Hazzlet. He was always advising against rashness. Nothing but grief could come of it, he always said. In fact he had dissuaded men more than once from making breaks for liberty.

But neither Hardy nor Hazzlet had gotten wind of the break. And it was too late for them to do it now. In a minute it would be in full swing. One of the untrustworthy trustees motioned to Tainter from the corridor, handing him a revolver as he came to the bars.

"Everything O.K. Ladder in the east yard. Here's the match and gas."

Tainter pulled some newspapers from under his mattress, wadded them and poured the gasoline from the small bottle over them and the mattress and lighted the match. In a moment the bunk was in flames. As the smoke rolled into the corridor pandemonium broke out. The flames licked up the mattress and started on the walls of the flimsy old partition. The acrid smoke made Tainter cough violently.

He had not intended for the fire to gain so much headway. The trusty was to see the smoke and run for one of the "screws" to come and let Tainter out. Then Tainter was to do the rest.

Finally the guard rushed up and unlocked the door. As Tainter bounded out he hit him with the butt of his revolver and took his keys. Swiftly he started to let the others out.

But something had alarmed the main office. The button there that unlocked or locked the cells by electricity, the same juice that was to have burned him, was touched. Instantly the remaining cells were doubly locked. His keys did no good. He hung them away with a curse. "Come on!" he yelled to the half dozen he had liberated. "We can make it into the yard."

But as they started down the corridor a hail of bullets swept it. The trusty dropped. The others retreated. In a turn of the corridors they halted. Tainter had his revolver and others had their keys.

"We've got to make a run for it!" Tainter exclaimed. "Smithy and I will lead. You guys follow."

They made another desperate sally and got half way down the hall where Hardy and the three guards were barring the way. Smith dropped. Tainter fired three of the six shots in his gun and saw a guard fall. Again they retreated. Tainter the last to turn.

"We've got to go through them," he sturned. "In a moment they'll have a gun. We'll use him as a shield, so we'll all burn if we don't. But I'll never be electrocuted. Come on!"

"Here comes Hazzlet!" one of the men whispered. And indeed he was walking toward them, partially obscured by the smoke that nearly filled the corridor. Tainter grinned slowly. Just the thing! "Well use him as a shield to lead us by the hand," he announced.

In a moment Father Hazzlet had reached them. "Men, you cannot go on with it."

"Oh can't we?" Tainter mocked. "They can't get back here, either. And unless they do everyone in the building will fry. You are going to lead us past them!"

"I will not!"

"Goin' to let five hundred men cook then?"

Hazzlet hesitated. Then looked at the flaming cell that Tainter had fired. The one next to it was burning. The freight elevator behind it was also in flames. Men were pounding on the bars and screaming now in deadly earnest.

"Goin' to let them sizzle? I'm in earnest. I AIN'T goin' to be electrocuted, see!"

Without a word Father Hazzlet started out. But the smoke must have confused the men at the other end. Another hail of bullets swept the corridor. With an oath Tainter turned on Hazzlet and fired. But the others were running ahead now, hands high in surrender. But Hazzlet wasn't surrendering. He still had two bullets. A stream of water from a fire hose drenched him suddenly. He fell back. Not out that way. The freight elevator! Dumb not to have thought of it before. Down to the basement, then into the yard.

He sprang into the elevator, gasping from the stench of burning rubber. His wet shoes made contact with the iron floor, and as he touched the iron door which had been electrified by the cage's touching the cables from which his fire had burned the insulation, he stiffened and then crumpled. He had been electrocuted.

OF SALT SHAKERS

KINGSTON, Ont. — Frank Owen of this city always gets salt and pepper shakers for Christmas—but she loves it. With 800 pairs she is Canada's top collector.

"It all started nine years ago at an auction sale," says Mrs. Owen. She bought a box of junk for five cents and found it contained six shakers, one pair and four odd ones, so she started collecting them. All those in her collection are matched except for the original four.

The original matched pair was a cheap aluminum set in a matching stand. The value of the sets in her collection now ranges from 10 cents to $24 for a set fashioned like a tiny sugar bowl and cream jug in crystal with platinum tops.

Mrs. Owen, who believes she is the only Canadian member of the "Good Neighbor Salt and Pepper Club," has sets which look like tiny clovers, bears, skunks, penguins and sunfish. There is the goose and the golden egg, ice cream cones, cobs of corn, hot dogs and hamburgers.

What Mrs. Owen wants most now is a kangaroo (salt) with a baby kangaroo (pepper) in the pouch.

Appropriate Prize?

The prize: a bowl of shaving soap for each man.

Neighborhood Spirit
Shown To Farmer

BRANDON. — There is ample evidence in Chater district that the spirit of neighborhood, which was characteristic of Manitoba's pioneers, still prevails in good measure.

Recently Chif. Abe, who farms ten miles east of Brandon on No. 1 highway, broke his collar bone while umpiring a baseball game at Chater. Shortly afterwards ten of his neighbors arrived with their tractors, plows, discs and one-way to do his summer plowing for him.

The men pitched in to the job first thing in the morning and by the afternoon it was completed.

To save time and to save Mrs. Abe from a lot of extra work the men's wives packed box lunches for them which Mrs. Abe supplemented with tea.

"We certainly appreciate what they are doing for us," Mrs. Abe said in a phone conversation with The Brandon Sun.

NUDISTS TO MEET

VANCOUVER. — Nudists from the northwestern states and all of Canada are expected here August 11-12 to attend the fifth annual convention of the Canadian Sunbathing Association on Vancouver's North Shore.

At least 200 men, women and children have indicated they will go to the mountain-side camp of the local "Van Terns" nudist group for the meet.

BATTER UP!—At the opening of the new $10,000 baseball stadium in Lindsay, Ont., Premier Leslie Frost, of Ontario, proved his versatility by stepping up to the plate like a big-leaguer and waiting a single on the second ball pitched. Mr. Frost sported a Lindsay player's cap as he waited for the pitch.

To Drill For Oil In South-
Western Man.

WINNIPEG—California Standard Co. plans to drill four new exploratory oil wells in southwestern Manitoba this year. It was learned here.

Details of the proposed program were given to Resources Minister J. S. McDiarmid by R. G. Pollis, Standard Oil Company of California, here to inspect the work of the company's Canadian subsidiary.

The resources minister also said five exploration crews had been assigned by the company to assemble geophysical data for selection of locations for future drilling operations.

Two of the crews are operating from Virden, site of the province's first producing well, two from Melita, and one from Wawanesa.

This Ball Game
Should be Something

Keep in mind Wednesday, Aug. 8. This is the date set aside for the United Church Sunday School Picnic to be held at Hardisty Lake. One of the highlights of this picnic will be a ball game between members of the boys intermediate class and the members of the high school girls. The boys flung down the gauntlet and the challenge was taken up by the girls. There will be plenty of other fun and excitement so plan to attend this picnic.

Grain Congestion
Again

Once again there is a serious tie-up in the movement of grain from the prairie provinces, this time due to the lack of shipping facilities on the Great Lakes. Terminal elevators at the lakehead are pretty well plugged as a result of lake boats being diverted from grain shipping to the more profitable movement of ore. Recently some 5,000 cars of grain were sitting on the tracks there waiting to be unloaded.

The Saskatchewan Wheat Pool estimates that it will be necessary to move from the lakehead an average of 2 million bushels daily between June 1 and July 31 if the Canadian Wheat Board is to meet its commitments and if the 1950 crop is to be marketed successfully.

As farmers are increasing their deliveries following completion of seeding and as the remainder of the 1950 crop is harvested, grain is again piling up in country elevators and a number are becoming plugged.

Traffic Accidents On Highways and Crossings

The dreadful toll of level crossing accidents still is alarming, not only in Alberta but in other sections of the dominion. Hardly a week passes but there are reports of this type of accident.

Undoubtedly there is need of a speed-up in the program of eliminating these crossings, in the opinion of officials of the AMA. While federal, provincial and municipal authorities are making large outlays annually in improving crossing conditions, there still are many thousands of these level railway crossings in the dominion.

Each one constitutes a menace to traffic, if there is a disregard of safety measures.

While there have been many suggestions of educational campaigns to warn drivers to be more than ever on the alert of level crossings, it is claimed that other measures also are needed.

The need of buses coming to a full stop at these crossings as required by legislation, is an indication of the legislative trend to improve safety factors.

After all, in the opinion of the AMA officials, a close regard to the safety precautions would mean a lot in reducing crossing accidents.
